Convicts Are Jailed by Own Crime

The senseless killing of the San Francisco desk sergeant and the wounding of his female clerk by unidentified assailants offers frightening indication of how far down the tubes our system of "law and order" has been shoved by kinky Supreme Court thinking.

The San Francisco killing followed by a few days the slaying of six at San Quentin — three of whom were guards. The San Francisco killing was said to have been in reprisal for the death of George Jackson, a self-styled "Soledad Brother," Jackson was killed at San Quentin.

Last year George Jackson's 17-year old brother, Jonathan, was killed in the San Rafael courthouse shootout that killed a judge and others — and which resulted in the jailing of militant Angela Davis.

Three guards died at San Quentin and there arose a hue-and-cry of prison bestiality.

How does the Supreme Court fit into these tragedies? Elementary! Supreme Court thinking has given rights to imprisoned criminals that transcend those of the victims.

It doesn't take a psychologist to figure out why prisoners and guards or criminals and police must have strong emotion about the other. Call it hate or anything less than that but the basics remain. The criminal and the convicted prisoners have committed a sin against non-criminal society. The cop he faces must be concerned with his own life. In prison, it is the prisoner who has erred — not the guard. There is no reason to consider either of these malefactors as a law abiding equal. Yet, such equality is sought by too many misguided people.

A story datelined Washington, D.C. several months ago gave an indication of the seriousness of the situation. Seventy six of the felonies which occurred there the year before were committed by 45 persons already under indictment for armed robbery, but who were out on bail, pending trial.

A New York Police Chief Inspector said, "It is self-defeating to have to arrest the same people over and over again. It seems as if our system of criminal justice is being perverted into a system of criminal injustice — injustice to a repeatedly victimized public."

A Delaware newspaper reported an instance of judicial restraint. A man was arrested for indecent exposure. Bond was set at $500. Two days later a young girl was kidnapped and attacked. The same man was arrested and charged with the crime, but some days later the young victim committed suicide. The case was not pressed. The victim had removed herself as a witness. Neither that case nor the indecent exposure case ever came to trial.

In another case an 18-year-old girl was abducted at knife point but managed to escape with minor injuries. The same man gave himself up to the police and was sentenced to a six-month term in jail. The sentence was not for a crime he committed. It was for probation violation. He was on probation for aggravated assault and robbery of an old man in 1966.

While it is true that many law-breakers are able to return to society rehabilitated and reformed, it must be remembered that they are imprisoned by their own acts. Until the penalty is paid and reformation comes, they should not be foisted on law-abiding people.

In prisons, guards must be allowed to exercise the authority needed to protect endangered lives. It is not the guard who has been imprisoned for lawlessness and ordered to be nearly helpless. He was hired to put down disorder by whatever means.

Likewise, the police officer must be encouraged to defend his own life as well as the non-criminal citizen. He is defending society — not working against it.

It's just that there has been too much emphasis on the rights of the law breaker. Let's put the emphasis back where it belongs.

Local Group to Aid First-Time Voters

We The People, a Lemon Grove-based non-partisan public service organization, is making plans to co-ordinate the efforts of the many groups interested in registering the new, young voters. "We have learned that there are many groups interested in helping these new voters get properly registered," said Doug Berry, spokesman for the group. "And we are concerned that there will be a lot of duplicated effort." Berry added that there is a strong possibility that some areas will be totally overlooked. Berry is a student at San Diego State.

He lives at 8080 Golden ave., n Lemon Grove.

He said the organization was formed when a group of college students decided to make registering more convenient for youthful voters. He said that party politics is not involved. "There are about 20 people in the group and they represent several elements of political belief on a personal basis. We The People hope to take the uncertainty and confusion out of registering for first time voters."

The group is contacting every organization interested in youthful voter registration in order to learn their plans. "With an election year coming up we want to be certain that every potential voter is given an opportunity to register," Berry said. "We think it is in the interest of all groups planning registration drives to co-ordinate through us. Our telephone number is 466-4624." Berry said that individuals interested in working in youthful registration drives could contact We The People and be referred to an organization which most fits their own needs.

L.G. Sheriff's Office Assigned Higher Rank

Lt. Francis "Frank" Hill, a 12-year veteran of the San Diego County Sheriff's organization, has been named officer in charge of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's office, it was announced this week. He assumes his new post Friday. He replaces Sgt. W. "Swede" Larson, who has been transferred to the El Cajon substation as detective sergeant.

According to Lt. Richard Sandberg, in the Sheriff's administrative research and planning bureau, the change is the result of the pressure for services because of growing population in the Lemon Grove-

Spring Valley area. The greater responsibility required higher rank he said.

Lt. Hill will be in charge of 5 sergeants, 14 patrol units and 32 Sheriff's deputies assigned to the Lemon Grove office.

"It will upgrade the service in the area," Lt. Sandberg said.

Hill has been a sheriff's deputy since July 1959 and has served both the East County and North County Patrol bureaus; the balliff's department and in the detective bureau. His last assignment is as shift lieutenant in the business office.

One Jailed, Another Flees In SV Glue Sniffing Case

Ruben D. Pacheco, 19, of 3614 Jamacha rd., Spring Valley, was arrested early last Tuesday morning on charges of inhaling glue, assault on a peace officer, and resisting arrest.

While on routine patrol, a sheriff's deputy observed the suspect vehicle parked near the corner of San Bernardino and Eucalyptus in Spring Valley. A check of the vehicle revealed no occupants.

A check of the immediate area revealed two suspects, one later identified as Pacheco and the other unidentified. As the deputy approached the scene, Pacheco yelled, "It's a bust," reports indicated.

Both suspects then rushed the officer, who "tackled" them and struggled with them. As he attempted to handcuff Pacheco, the second suspect fled. After several attempts to handcuff Pacheco, he succeeded.

Pacheco then refused to walk to the patrol car, reports said, and was dragged to an area immediately in front of the vehicle and told to remain there. A patrol dog was alerted to stop the suspect if he attempted to flee.

The deputy then summoned assistance by radio in order to make a search of the area for the other suspect. While he was using the radio, Pacheco attempted to leave, but the patrol dog stopped him after a few feet, dragging him

Murder Charges Filed In L.G. Shooting Case

San Diego Man Dead Of Gun Wounds Sunday

Murder charges were filed Tuesday afternoon with the District Attorney's Office against Mrs. Alta Marie Kaiser, 32, of 1917 Dartmoor dr., Lemon Grove, in connection with a fatal shooting Sunday evening at her home.

According to reports from the Sheriff's Department, Mrs. Kaiser was taken into custody at the scene of the alleged murder.

Reports indicated that Mrs. Kaiser had been out during the day and evening with the victim, 38-year-old Patrick Arnold Murphy, of 8055 Helm st., San Diego. The pair arrived at the Dartmoor dr. address at about 10:40 p.m.

The couple went into the suspect's bedroom, while Mrs. Kaiser's four children were asleep in another room. A short time later, the children heard shots being fired.

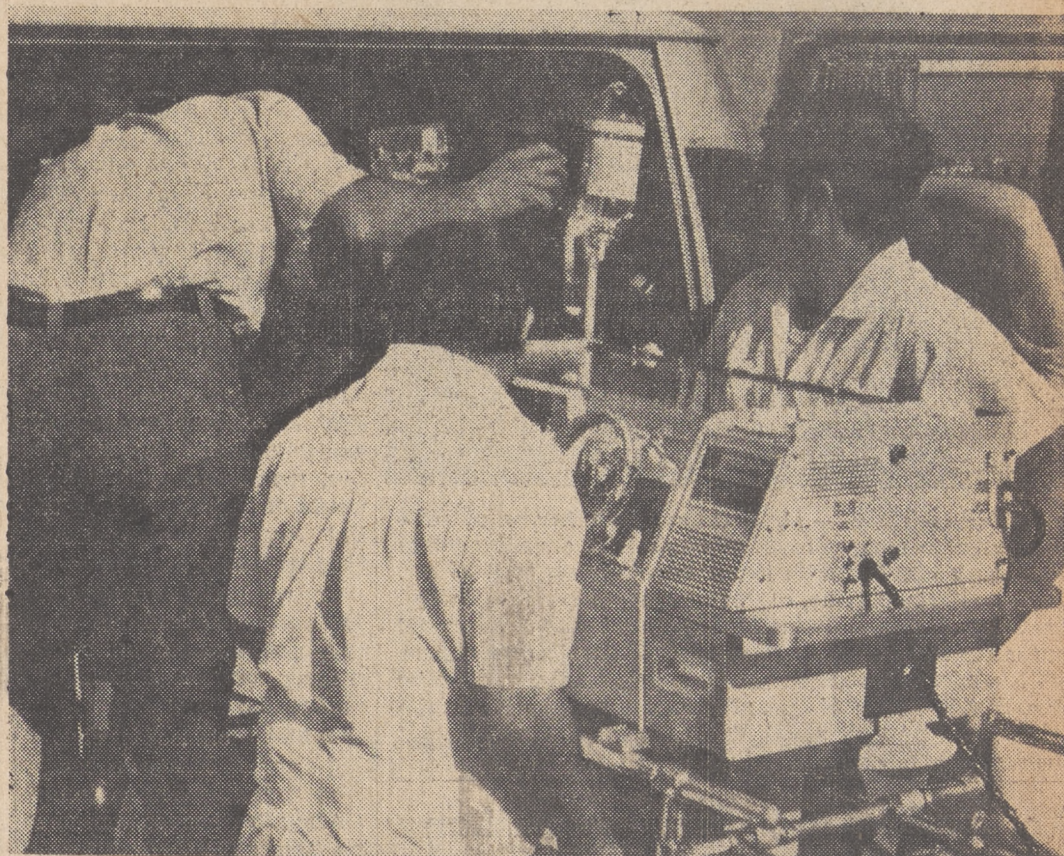

Dead at the scene at 10:50 p.m. from a gunshot to the chest was Murphy, who also was wounded in the groin. The Coroner's Office indicated the fatal shot was from a .22 caliber automatic handgun.

The suspect was also apparently wounded at the scene as she was treated at University Hospital for bullet wounds to the right leg and left thumb. She was listed in satisfactory condition.

Evidence taken at the scene by Sheriff's deputies included a .22 caliber automatic pistol.

A preliminary investigation has been completed, according to Sheriff's Sergeant Robert Ring, who is still making a final investigation.

Graveside services were scheduled for this morning at 9:30 a.m. at Mt. Hope Cemetery for Murphy, who is survived by his parents, four children, and a brother.

INFANT LIFESAVER — Doctors and ambulance attendants load infant transporter onto ambulance after rush from Imperial Valley in Coast Guard helicopter. Transporter is special design of Dr. Lewis Gluck of University Hospital of San Diego County and is self-contained incubator with own air supply and all facilities needed for emergency transport of critically ill infants. Already more than 70 trips have been made, several involving helicopters, to bring infants to special infant intensive care unit at University Hospital. Ambulance and helicopter transportation were arranged through the San Diego County Emergency Medical Care Coordinator, James F. Gleason.

Emergency Medical Care For San Diego County Improving

Riot — fire — flood — earthquake — or a slip in the bathtub — what are your chances of getting quick emergency medical care?

"Good — and getting better," says James Gleason, coordinator for San Diego County's Emergency Medical Care Committee. "With barely two years work behind us, there is already a marked improvement in the quality and quantity of emergency care available, and we expect soon to have real improvement in emergency communication and transportation facilities."

The group was formed in 1968 when the state legislature ruled that all counties receiving gas tax monies must have an emergency medical care committee.

"The goal of the program," says Gleason, "is improvement of emergency medical care in all its aspects. This includes upgrading education and special training of all people who are or might be involved in such care — lifeguards, park rangers, teachers, ambulance attendants."

"It also includes improvement and coordination of all emergency transportation facilities, civilian and military, to mobilize in case of a major disaster, or to answer more quickly and efficiently to a single emergency.

Dr. Stephen P. Murphy, an anesthesiologist, was the choice to head the organization. Pioneer in emergency care with a nationwide reputation, Dr. Murphy in the 1950's helped the San Diego Police Department set up its ambulance service; he has been closely involved with emergency care in the county and state ever since.

The most widely publicized achievement of the Emergency Medical Care Committee has been getting an infant trans-

May Replace Incorporation

Municipal Advisory Council Seen for Unincorporated Areas

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — A new state law that could profoundly change attitudes toward annexations and incorporations will go into effect 60 days after the adjournment of this year's state legislature.

The bill is short on words, but long on the implications.

It provides that the board of supervisors of any county may establish and fund a municipal advisory council for any unincorporated area in the county.

Skip Schmidt, acting executive officer of the Local Agency Formation Commission, is the first county officer to come in contact with the legislation. He will not be the last.

A civic association in Poway has proposed that the community consider a municipal advisory council in lieu of incorporation.

Lemon Grove and Spring Valley will have an interest in studying such a possibility.

It appears that any area that can support a community planning effort could be expected to seriously study formation of a municipal advisory council (MAC).

Schmidt said the MAC would be as strong as the Board of Supervisors would allow it to be. If the board followed the advice of a MAC in nearly all cases, the MAC could practically become a city council in effect.

A board that consistently rejected the advice would soon destroy a community confidence in a MAC.

Apparently, Schmidt said, the board of supervisors could give a MAC just about any power that the board itself possesses, although this power would have to be enacted through the board.

Combination Possible

The combination of a MAC and a county service area (CSA) with the taxing powers of CSA could lead to all kinds of possibilities. If the members of a MAC were elected, it appears it would be most difficult for the supervisors to overrule the advice of a MAC.

Planning would be the most likely charge given to a MAC by the board and it is probably the most desired function by many communities.

A board could give a MAC local planning control and retain regional planning functions with the county. MAC's could be follow-on developments.

There is no requirement for an election in any community on the choice of formation of a MAC, and, in fact, no provision for such an election, although one could probably be held by the order of the supervisors.

There is a provision for an election for the formation of a county service area, but this is under a complicated procedure requiring real determination of the residents to get an election.

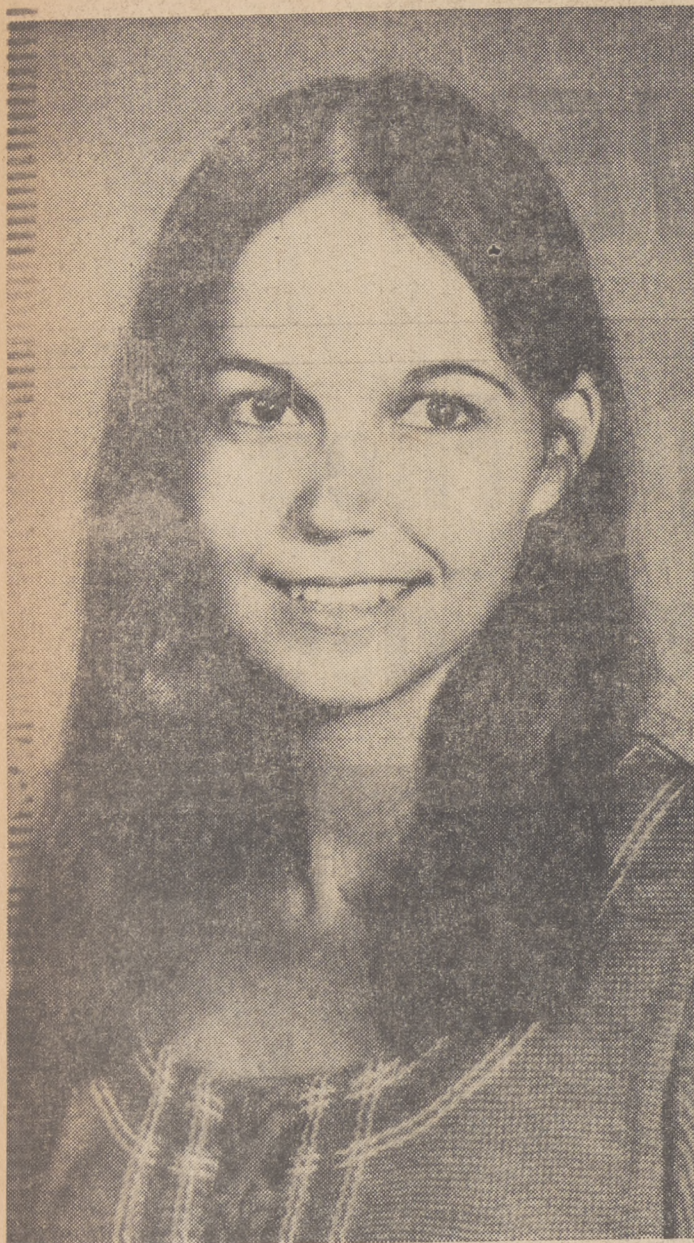

A MAC under the county board would have some real advantages over incorporation from a money standpoint.

The territory would still be non-city and the county would still pay the bill for roads, other improvements, and for law enforcement.

A combined MAC-CSA could tax itself for increased levels of service, such as for better library service or more sheriff's patrols.

Incorporation is seldom presented as a money-saver. The mere cost of peace enforcement eats up, in general terms, all of the sales taxes that a new city would receive,

Actors Planned For Symposium

An innovative symposium for general duty nurses will be conducted by the San Diego County Heart Association, September 30, according to Alice Pinkerton, R.N., chairman of the health agency's Committee for Continuing Education for Nurses.

"With the goal of improving the communication between the doctor-nurse team and the patient," Miss Pinkerton said, "we will be employing the technique of role-playing with the assistance of three well-known actors: Mrs. Robert Drexler, Johnathan Dunn-Rankin, and Burt Miller."

In the remaining time before lunch, the following role-playing scenes will be conducted: "The Pre-Hospital Phase," "Admission and Diagnostic Phase," and "Acute Phase."

This newspaper presents this question and answer column about the Social Security program as a public service to its readers. The questions are those most frequently asked about Social Security. The answers are provided by Bill Brees, El Cajon Social Security Office Manager.

Q. I work in a day care center operated by my church. Since my work is not covered under social security, I do not contribute to the program. Can I voluntarily pay into social security so I will be able to get monthly benefits at 62?

A. No. You cannot voluntarily contribute to social security to build up credit towards benefits. There is a way for employees of non-profit religious organizations to get social security coverage. For full details, contact any social security office.

Q. Is there some way I can check on the earnings to my social security record?

A. Yes. A special post card, designed for this purpose, is available at your social security office. The Social Security Administration encourages people to check their records every two or three years. There is no charge for this service.

Q. I am 64 years old. I retired when I was 62, but wanted to wait until I was 65 to sign up for full social security retirement benefits. I have now decided to go ahead and apply for reduced benefits. Can I get my checks all the way back to the month I was 62?

A. No. An application for social security retirement benefits can be retroactive for no more than 12 months.

Q. I am 68 and collect monthly social security retirement benefits. I also work part-time. How often should I ask the social security office to refigure my benefits based on additional earnings to see if I am due an increase in my checks?

A. You don't have to ask at all. Your benefits are automatically refigured each year.

Q. How old does a disabled worker have to be to receive social security monthly disability benefits?

A. There is no minimum age, but a sufficient work period under social security is required to be eligible for disability benefits.

Q. I recently sent a post card form to check on my earnings under social security. When I received a statement of my earnings, I found that there was an error for the year 1969. How do I go about getting it corrected?

A. You should gather up any information you may have about your 1969 wages (payroll slips, withholding statements, etc.) and call or visit your social security office. The people there will help you straighten out your earnings record.

Q. I am 63 and still work full time. I plan to retire next year when I reach 64. Should I wait until I retire to apply for social security benefits?

A. No. You should apply two or three months before you retire so that your first check will reach you on time.

Q. I own a small vending business, which I operate part time. Do I have to pay social security contributions on my earnings from the business?

A. You are required to pay social security self-employment contributions if your net earnings from the business are $400 or more in a taxable year. I've been carrying my own health insurance for years. Since I'm getting close to 65, I was wondering if I should keep my private insurance or enroll in Medicare. Can you help me decide?

A. You should check with your insurance company before you reach 65. Most private health insurance companies adjust their coverage at 65 so that it pays for items not covered by Medicare.

Q. I receive monthly social security survivors benefits for my daughter who was just 16. She is planning to get married. Will her benefits continue until she's 18 even after she gets married?

A. No. Her social security benefits will stop with the month before she marries. Be sure and notify your social security office of the marriage event.

Q. As a Federal Civil Service employee, I didn't pay into social security. However, I did work part time for a number of years in department stores. Would I be eligible for social security benefits based on this part time work?

A. Possibly. Call or visit your social security office to find out for sure.

Dinner-Dance Due Saturday At VFW Hall

A dance program to benefit the San Diego County Mental Health Association's Friendship Center will be given by the Friendship Club.

Mrs. Kyo Wittrock of Mission Hills, dance program chairman, announced the dance will be held Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the VFW Post No. 4851 Hall, 541 E. 24th st., National City.

The dance proceeds will pay for flooring at the newly remodeled Friendship Center, 3956 Third ave., San Diego, a social rehabilitation facility for former mental patients.

The Friendship Club, an organization of ladies who became the brides of American service men in Japan, has adopted the Friendship Center as a year-around philanthropic project.

Preceding the dance, the VFW will serve a shish-ka-bob dinner from 6 to 8 p.m., with Roy Muraoka of Chula Vista in charge, according to the post commander, Paul Kuyama.

More than 30 door prizes, to be won at a drawing during the dance, have been contributed by merchants.

A dance band is being furnished free-of-charge by Local 325 of the American Federation of Musicians, and the VFW is donating the use of the hall as well as a door prize.

The Friendship Center serves 150 men and women, most of whom are returnees from state hospitals. With the help of 25 volunteers it provides classes in ceramics, pottery, oil painting and home-making arts.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The League of Women Voters of San Diego County has endorsed AB 3050, the bill which will replace the Comprehensive Planning Organization with the San Diego Council of Governments, known as SANCOG.

There has been criticism over the past weeks that the bill was being amended in Sacramento so that the concept endorsed by the cities had changed. The bill is now in print and is detailed and complicated.

Most of the changes requested by the County and the city of San Diego have been incorporated but the basic concept has not changed. The present method of funding for the organization is retained with a 3c per $100 ceiling; special districts have been given a vote; and the public will have an opportunity for a referendum vote in 1974. The bill still represents the best hope for the cities and county of San Diego to achieve the goals of good regional planning. CPO has been progressing for five years now in planning projects for transportation, land use, water distribution, sewerage systems, drainage and flood control, as well as areas of social concern.

The cities will have a vital part in the acceptance of a General Plan for all of San Diego County which will make it easier for them to resist pressures to over-develop or make short-sighted decisions. We want citizens to understand the importance of this legislation to all of San Diego county and urge them to let their representatives know of their support.

The League of Women Voters is interested in government that is responsive and responsible to the wishes of the people and we believe AB 3050 will bring us closer to this ideal.

bomber and production of the Minuteman III guidance and control systems are in that category.

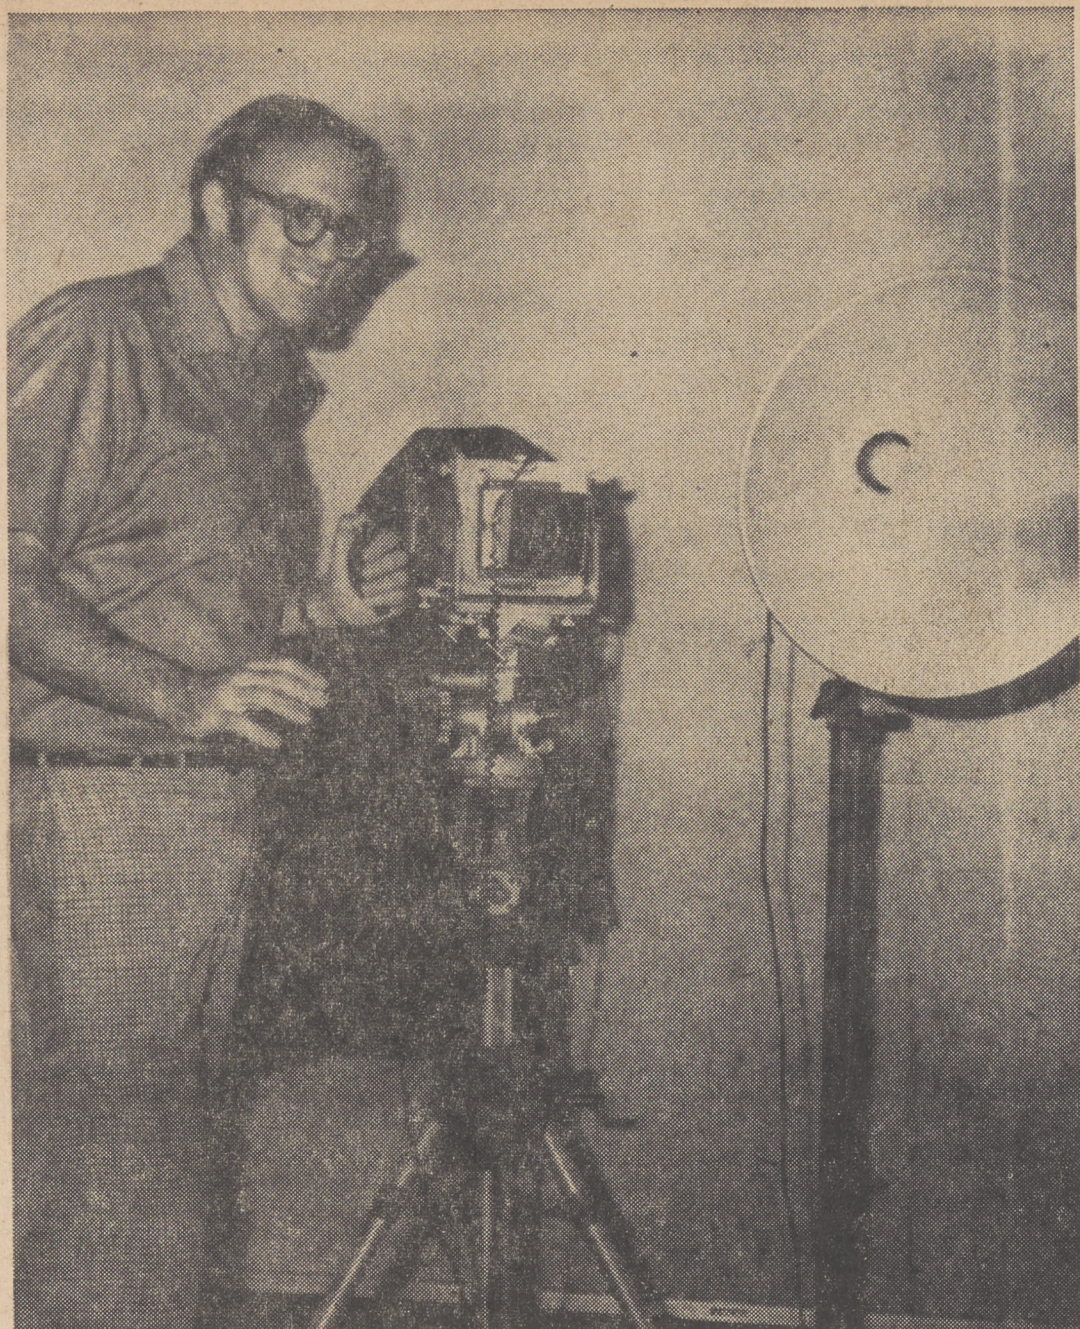

Earlier this month, the Air Force announced that a major cost overrun of $10.5 million had been realized in the Minuteman III program, while accuracy of the intercontinental strategic missile has improved and deliveries have been on schedule.

And recently the Air Force and its two B-1 prime contractors, North American Rockwell and General Electric, announced that adoption of new procedures associated with development of the strategic bomber will result in an anticipated savings of approximately $292 million over the next three years. The new B-1 aircraft, badly needed replacement for the aging B-52, has completed its first year ahead of schedule and under anticipated costs.

Quite a few people in industry here in California and in government worked hard to achieve these results. As prime contractors to the Air Force for both programs, we at North American Rockwell are proud to have had a part.

We hope you will agree that good news sometimes is worth reading about too.

Sincerely,
Earl Blount

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

By JAMES HARDISON

Our nearest Spanish-speaking country, Mexico, exercises an important exchange of goods and services with the United States. Activities of exchange are expressed in words like "exporta" and "importa." General appearance of these words are good clues to their translation into English. "Exporta" means "export" and "importa" means "import."

"Que exporta Mexico?" means "What does Mexico export?" A realistic response would be "Mexico exporta minerales, frutas, y henequen." (Mexico exports minerals, fruits, and sisal.) If we live in an area where "sisal" or "henequen" is not used in ordinary conversation, we might ask "Que es henequen?" (What is sisal?). A reasonable response could be "Henequen es una planta que se usa para hacer sogas y cuerdas." (Sisal is a plant that is used to make ropes and twines.)

"Que mas exporta Mexico?" means "What else does Mexico export?" This question may be answered "Tambien Mexico exporta plata y petroleo." for "Mexico also exports silver and oil."

"Que importa Mexico?" asks "What does Mexico import?" There are a wide range of answers to this question. We might begin with a response like "Mexico importa radios, medicinas, y fonografos." (Mexico imports radios, medicines, and phonographs.) We might also say "Mexico importa carbon, automoviles, y camiones." for "Mexico imports coal, automobiles, and trucks."

"Importacion" and "exportacion" are the noun forms for "importation" and "exportation." We may use these in a sentence like "Importacion y exportacion son muy importantes." (Importation and exportation are very important.) are used in the practice phrases listed below. You may find that your pronunciation of these phrases may be improved by practicing them with the recorded voice that is heard on 276-2762.

Important Phrases: Say "Que exporta Mexico?" (keh eh-SPOHR-tah MEH-hee-koh) for "What does Mexico export?" Say "Mexico exporta plata." (MEH-hee-koh eh-SPOHR-tah PLAH-tah) for "Mexico exports silver."

Useful Phrases: Say "Que importa Mexico?" (keh eh-SPOHR-tah MEH-hee-koh) for "What does Mexico import?" Say "Mexico importa radios y medicinas." (MEH-hee-koh eh-SPOHR-tah RAH-dee-ohs ee meh-dee-SEE-nah) for "Mexico imports radios and medicines."

Other Phrases: Say "Que es henequen?" (keh eh eh-eh-KEHN) for "What is sisal?" Say "Es una planta." (ehs OO-nah PLAHN-tah) for "It is a plant."

Hamilton Is Chairman For Scripps Program

James S. Copley, recently selected General Chairman of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation development program for new facilities, announced the appointment of Thomas M. Hamilton as Chairman of the program's steering committee.

In making his first major appointment Copley said, "I can think of no better man than Tom Hamilton for this vital position. In his long history of devotion to professional, civic and philanthropic causes he has demonstrated his dynamic qualities as a leader and organizer."

Clinic trustees expect to raise $10 million in the first phase of what is expected to be a $20-25 million program to relocate their facilities on Torrey Pines Road. The new 12-acre site, donated by Dow Chemical Company, overlooks Torrey Pines Golf Course and the ocean.

The new facilities will be designed by Edward Durrell Stone and Associates, considered to be one of the world's foremost architectural firms. Stone and Associates was among 14 architectural firms, including three from San Diego, to be carefully considered.

The steering committee chaired by Hamilton will include approximately 40 well known men and women drawn from all parts of the nation; however, more than half the members will be from San Diego County.

Orientation Day Set At Jr. High Schools

Traditionally, the junior high schools in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District set one day aside for the purpose of orienting new junior high school students. All of the junior high schools have set aside Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon as orientation day with the exception of La Presa Junior High School.

La Presa Junior High School is now involved in the year-round school program.

Zoo Society Holds Annual Get-Together

Attendance at the Zoological Society of San Diego's annual meeting Wednesday set a record again this year, society president Anderson Borthwick said today.

More than 7,000 of the society's 32,000 members participated in the year's meeting, Borthwick said. "This is an increase of nearly 2,000 over last year's record attendance at the event; but in the past 12 months society membership has increased by 10,000 persons."

Because of the crowds, the annual meeting followed a new format this year. Members were admitted free to the zoo all day, as they are every day; but in addition they were treated to free guided bus tours and free aerial tramway rides throughout the day upon presentation of their membership cards.

Following the 4:30 p.m. business meeting of the society, three similar entertainment programs were presented in the zoo's Wegeforth Bowl.

At 5 p.m. and again at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. music was provided by "The Bright Side," a young people's singing group.

The society's medal for outstanding contributions to the cause of conservation was presented at the 6 p.m. program. The 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. programs also included trained sea lion shows.

There were animal shows throughout the day. "Carol" elephant and her trainer Joan Embury appeared on the stage of the bowl at 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.; and additional sea lion shows were presented at 12:30 and 3 p.m.

A photographic display of the new San Diego Wild Animal Park was set up near the zoo's Reptile House, and barbecued beef was served picnic-style throughout the afternoon to members who made reservations for the meal.

SIGHT AND SOUND — Eyes and ears on the window of the new Michael's House of Sight and Sound in Lemon Grove, are enough to let the average passer-by know what the shop deals in. The new business, which opened last week in the Alpha Beta Shopping Center near Broadway and Massachusetts in Lemon Grove, features Motorola and Admiral color television sets, as well as a full line of stereo equipment.

LIBRARY LIB — The La Mesa Library last week announced the installation of a listening center to accommodate a collection of tape cartridges, part of a pilot "library liberation" program. Features of the program include the tape collection and listening center as well as a new collection of art

'Library Lib' Program Tested In La Mesa

The La Mesa Library, at 8055 University ave., La Mesa, has been "liberated."

Actually, the library hasn't taken up burning its books and smoking cigars. Not yet, anyway.

According to librarian Karen Chadorch, a collection of tape cassettes and new art prints has been added to the library's collection of 40,000 books, making the library more of "a swinging place."

Included in the tape collection are rock and pop tunes by such groups as the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Bob Dylan, and B.B. King. For the less rock-minded listeners, classical music, including Beethoven and Mozart, are also included, as are sound tracks from such movies as "Easy Rider" and "Hello Dolly."

For art enthusiasts, fine prints such as Picasso's "Woman With a Book" and Breton's "Song of the Lark." Several of the prints may be checked out, so library users may hang them in their home.

No tape cassettes can be checked out right now, but a program for those who wish to borrow tapes will be initiated some time around the first of next year.

To accommodate listeners, the library has installed a listening center, complete with four sets of earphones. When the earphones are not in use, the center provides a light background of music for all library users.

The tape and art program are part of a pilot project of the San Diego County Audio-Visual Department. Mrs. Chadorch said that it is hoped that the program will entice more youngsters to use the library.

She said that teens are usually the last to read books and the first to listen to music.

The library is open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Saturdays.

Children Must Be Vaccinated To Start School

The public information office of the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District reports that for children entering school for the first time in September polio, measles and mumps immunization are required.

For polio, youngsters may have taken three Salk-type vaccine inoculations, types I, II, and III monovalent oral vaccine, trivalent oral vaccine, or a combination of the monovalent and trivalent vaccine. Children may be exempted if their physician states immunization is inadvisable for health reasons, or if the parents state that they do not believe in immunization.

Requirements may also be met for measles immunization by submission of a statement from a physician or health agency that a youngster has had the disease or has been properly immunized. Again, a physician may state that he believes the vaccine to be unsafe, or the parents may say immunization is contrary to their beliefs.

Farm Labor Position OK'd By U.S. Court

A senior Reagan Administration official expressed satisfaction today with a federal judge's pretrial order interpreting federal regulations applicable to wages paid to farm workers.

The official, William H. Tolbert, head of the Rural Manpower Service said the order was issued in San Francisco by United States District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli, in a suit by California Rural Legal Assistance.

The judge's interpretation, Tolbert said, "upholds the position taken by the State's Rural Manpower Service that it was not violating any wage requirements in its referral of piece-rate workers to farm work."

Tolbert said CRLA had sought to close down the Rural Manpower Service because, it was alleged, RMS was violating the law by referring workers to employers who were paying less than the minimum wage.

Some 205 incoming freshmen, on the basis of college aptitude test scores, will receive invitations this week to enter San Diego State this fall with special honors, according to Dr. Ned V. Joy, college dean of undergraduate studies.

Three QB's At USIU Cause 'Nice' Problem

Although football practice is under way at United States International University where Coach Marv Braden has a squad of 64 candidates working out, he has one problem most coaches would be happy to have — three experienced quarterbacks battling for the starting job.

Doug Omer, who led the Westerners to a 7-3 record last year as a sophomore, is back again, and under normal circumstances his credentials would be good enough to guarantee him his job again. Last year the Santa Ana athlete completed 84 of 189 passes for 1150 yards and five touchdowns. He carried the ball 173 times for 268 net yards and led the team in total yardage with 1418. He also earned a varsity letter as a freshman as a defensive back.

But two transfers who competed in spring practice, Jeff Attenbery from San Diego State, and Wayne Oberreuter, former San Diego City College and San Jose State gridders, could relegate Omer to third string or possibly into the defensive backfield.

"We are happy about this situation," Braden said. "Last year we had two quarterbacks sidelined with injuries and if anything had happened to Omer we would have been in serious trouble. It's good to have the kind of depth we have at a key position."

Baby Orangutan Gets Intensive Care At Zoo

A red, wrinkle-faced baby has joined the crowded ranks of the San Diego Children's Zoo nursery, where she is receiving much the same attention as any human infant, including around-the-clock feedings.

The new baby is an orangutan, and the highly endangered status of her species justifies the intensive care she is receiving. She was born last week in the zoo, and at week's end, when her mother could not care for her properly, she was brought to the Children's Zoo nursery to join two six-week-old lion cubs, another orangutan and pigmy chimpanzee.

The new orang, named "Karen," had added three ounces to the three pounds, eight and one-half ounces she weighed upon arrival at the nursery last week. She eats one and one-half ounces of infant's formula every two hours and spends most of the rest of the time sleeping, according to attendant Sue Schroeder.

It will take approximately ten years for her to reach her adult size of about 100 pounds. She is already covered with the wiry red hair characteristic of orangutans.

Karen is the daughter of Roberta, born in the zoo in 1953; and Robert, who was three and a half years old when he arrived in 1958. She is Roberta's first baby.

Orangutans are members of the great ape family which also includes gorillas and chimpanzees. Orangs are considered highly endangered due to a diminishing habitat in their native Sumatra and Borneo and due to hunting by poachers.

Chargers Host Van Brocklin And 'Red Hot' Falcon Team

San Diego edition of "Making of a Football Team '71" reaches its final pre-season chapter Saturday night.

Norm Van Brocklin's red-hot Atlanta Falcons are the test for the Chargers at San Diego Stadium. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

San Diego has a 3-2 record after an impressive victory over the Los Angeles Rams, 20-14, at the Coliseum last Friday night.

Atlanta is 3-1. The Falcons lost their opener to Kansas City, 12-10, but since have whipped Denver, 27-10; Buffalo, 35-24, and New England, 45-35.

"On schedule" was the verdict of Charger Coach Sid Gillman when queried about his team's pre-season progress. "I wasn't sure before this (Rams) game. Our kids now feel we can win. We know we have a football team."

San Diego came of age against Los Angeles by the domination of its forward lines. While John Hadl was receiving perfect protection, the Chargers assaulted Roman Gabriel, sacked him five times for 37 yards, and forced four Ram interceptions.

Given No. 1 pre-season priority, development of stronger Charger forward lines.

San Diego's offensive line of tackles Terry Owens and Russ Washington, guards Doug Wilkerson and Walt Sweeney and center Gruneisen faces another strong challenge against Atlanta. Noted for their rugged defense in 1970, the Falcons have two of the NFL's top performers in end Claude Humphrey and middle linebacker Tommy Nobis.

San Diego's defensive line of ends Steve DeLong and John Tanner with Joe Owens and tackles Kevin Hardy, Ron East with Andy Rice also are in for a busy Saturday night. Atlanta has a powerful running attack featuring Jim (Cannonball) Butler, Art Malone and Paul Gipson. Butler is averaging 7.0 and Malone 5.2 in the pre-season. Waived from San Diego last week, Gene Foster should receive his Falcon baptism against his former teammates.

Atlanta quarterback Bob Berry enters the game with a 60.0 completion percentage. He throws to all-star tight end Jim Mitchell and rookie wide receivers Ken Burrow from San Diego State and Wes Chesson from Duke. Burrow has caught six passes for 106 yards and two touchdowns. Another Aztec alumni on the Falcons is rookie cornerback Tom Hayes.

Fullback Jeff Queen was the Charger hero on offense against the Rams. He gained 59 yards on 17 carries, caught 2 passes for 13 yards and scored one touchdown. Hadl completed 13 of 26 passes for 138 yards and one touchdown. Pettis Norman was the top receiver with four catches for 36 yards.

Rookie running back Mike Montgomery showed his versatility by completing two passes and catching three — one a 40-yard play for a touchdown.

The four passes intercepted by the Chargers gave them a pre-season total of eight, same figure they had for 14 league games in 1970.

Saturday night's game will be the first meeting between San Diego and Atlanta and the first coaching encounter between Gillman and his former Ram quarterback Van Brocklin.

Vets Enter War Stories Competition

Hospitalized Vietnam veterans are putting their untold stories of the war onto paper in a national contest at veterans hospitals across the country.

The contest for patients in Veterans Administration hospitals is being sponsored for the 26th year by the Hospitalized Veterans Writing Project, Inc., a voluntary organization which has headquarters at the VA Research Hospital, 333 East Huron Street, Chicago.

Each VA hospital is sponsoring its own writing contest, creating opportunities for veterans to write every day as a rehabilitation activity. Manuscripts of the winners in the local contests will be forwarded for judging in the national contest, which has divisions for feature articles, short stories, patriotic essays, and light verse and poetry.

Entries will be judged by H.V.W.P. on October 15, March 15, and June 15. These dates coincide with the publishing schedule of the organization's magazine, "Veterans' Voices." Winners whose work is chosen to appear in the publication will receive checks from the editor.

'Get Grossmont' to be Cry During Prep Football Year

"Get Grossmont" will once again be the cry heard when the Grossmont League football season gets underway.

A look at the league's teams this year, although most teams have been practicing only a week, indicates that Grossmont, the perennial powerhouse of the league, will be the team to beat this year.

Teams that will have the best chance at getting to the Foothillers include El Cajon Valley, Helix, and El Capitan.

The Fithillers have such returners this season as two-year letterman Larry Olsen, who will anchor the running backs. Joining him in the backfield will be a pair of returners in Mike Hicks and Larry Wolfe. The Foothillers have two young quarterbacks in Curt Hanzel and Mike Rundell. Two excellent linemen for the Grossmont offense will be John Rader and Pat Stewart.

Working to get the ball for the explosive offensive unit will be a defense that includes two fine linebackers, Travis Hitt and Randy Bowker, who last year were among the best pass defenders in the league.

Grossmont Coach Pat Roberts, who insists that the league will be among the county's toughest, said that El Cajon, Helix, El Capitan, and Santana will probably give him the most worries during the season.

Looking to El Cajon, 12 returning lettermen will make the Braves among the contenders for the league crown.

The Braves boast a corps of giants on the offensive crew that includes 225-pound lineman Boyd Thomas and 198-pound lineman Kenny Barnes, and a monstrous fullback in 245-pound Curt Hampton.

To compliment its size, El Cajon will have some quick defensive backs in Keith Green, Bob Henry, Terry Fleisher, and Dave Nicolet. The talented offensive backfield includes outstanding signal caller Bobby Lucas and tailback Mark Johnson.

The only problem El Cajon should run into this year is its schedule, which shows Grossmont and Helix in the first few contests.

At Helix High, despite some rust from a long summer layoff, the offensive backfield looks like an excellent one with last year's starting quarterback Jim Browning back for some fun with returning fullback Frank Woolrich, who was among the tops last year.

Also included in the Highlander offensive unit are returning receivers Chip Swanson and Ken Sluder, and a host of fine linemen.

Defensively, however, the Highlanders are not expected to dominate their opponents. Although the Highlanders will have four returning letter winners on defense, the crew looks a little bit weak.

Some high scoring games can be expected from Helix.

El Capitan completes the list of those expected to give Grossmont a good run for its money, as the Vaqueros boast several returners and possibly the meanest attitude in the league.

El Capitan, as tradition has indicated, will once again be the most physical team in the league, leaving the Vaqueros a good upset bet and a dark horse for the flag.

The weaker teams in the league will be Monte Vista, Granite Hills, Mount Miguel, and Santana. Mt. Miguel and Santana feature new coaching staffs, which makes them a little more unpredictable.

Monte Vista, a competitor almost every Friday night last year, but a loser almost every Friday night also, should be traveling the same road this year.

Granite Hills coach Jim Symington, with eight returning lettermen, has a pretty fair team, although the Eagles will be outclassed by the tougher Grossmont and El Cajon Valley teams.

Granite Hills, with a bit of luck, could come out in the top four teams.

At Santana, the Sultans will be a good group of competitors, although new coaching and new players make the situation there tough to predict.

At Mount Miguel, new coaches and players again make it tough to call, but one thing is for sure — the Matadors can do no worse than they did last year.

Bigger, better players will be in this year's starting lineup, and a chance to surprise some of the tough teams makes a good attitude among the Matadors.

This year's final standings should look something like this:

Grossmont, 6-1
El Cajon, 5-2
Helix, 4-3
El Capitan, 4-3
Granite Hills, 3-4
Santana, 2-5
Mount Miguel, 2-5
Monte Vista, 2-5

Palm Springs Tram Reopens After 4 Weeks

After undergoing nearly four weeks of safety inspection and maintenance work, the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway reopened last week in time to thrill Labor Day weekenders seeking the cooler climes of Mt. San Jacinto.

Besides refurbishing tramway operating equipment, workers at the valley station completed installation of a new snack bar which adjoins the cocktail lounge area.

Additionally, the gift shop was enlarged to double its original size. Gift shop and eating facilities are operated by a concessionaire, Tramway Hospitality, Inc.

The tramway, which transports passengers from the desert to the 8,500-foot level of Mt. San Jacinto State Park in two 80-passenger cars, will also resume its "ride and dine" combination special for at least another two months.

Actors Quarter Schedules 'Ghosts' Tomorrow Night

By Lynn Jones

The Actors Quarter, 480 Elm st., will present Henrik Ibsen's classic about a prodigal son who returns home, tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m.

The stage play, "Ghosts", concerns a kind-hearted mother, Mrs. Alving, who attempts to build an orphanage in memory of her late husband. In the meantime her son, Oswald, returns home to tell her that he is dying, but is in love with the housekeeper, Regina.

The mother sees that Oswald's love for Regina is a reenactment of an affair her husband had with a housekeeper a few years back. Things are downhill from this point.

L. W. Beck will direct the show. Sets will be by Jim Cody and Bob Sackett. Costumes will be by Ginger Cody. The cast will feature Alice Barnhart as Mrs. Alving; Charles Jones as Oswald Alving; Frank Powers as Pastor Manders; Christine Brown as Regina Engstrand; and Ray Bobber as Jacob Engstrand. The play can be seen Friday and Saturday nights through October 16.

Canned Heat, Grass Roots, and Bo Diddley will all be performing for a rock concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Sports Arena.

Diddley, a popular performer since the beginning of rock 'n' roll in the 1950's, has been a frequent performer at concerts in San Diego. He has appeared several times as a second act in the Arena and the Convention Hall and also was among the performers featured on the Rock 'n' Roll Revival show here with Chuck Berry, the Platters and other acts.

Canned Heat, who has also played here several times, specializes in "the boogie." The band is composed of Bob "The Bear" Hite, Henry "Sunflower" Vestine, Adolfo "Fito" de la Parra, Antonio de la Barreda, and Joel Scott Hill.

The Grass Roots are composed of five members, including three from the original group. Original members are Bob Grill, bass; Warren Entner, guitar; and Rickey Coonce, drums. Organist Dennis Provisor joined the group in 1968. The group has also added a lead guitarist, Terry Furlong. For more information call 224-4176.

The Puppet Playhouse will open Saturday with "Jack in the Beanstalk," the story about a giant, a chicken that lays golden eggs, and many other characters.

Pat Platt has adapted the tale for performances at 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through the end of October at the Playhouse, 3903 Voltaire Street.

There will be a giant puppet and a "giantess" puppet, each 36 inches tall, among the characters. A very small ladybug and dancing flowers will also be featured.

Gaylord Carter, one of the best-known theater organists in the United States, will return to the Southland Music Center in Lemon Grove for a program at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Carter, who mainly works in Los Angeles as an accompanist for television shows and cartoons, first performed here in May. Saturday night he will accompany the silent film "Ella Cinders," starring Colleen Moore. He will also accompany "The Sawmill," starring Harold Lloyd. There will be a sing-along planned for the performance at the Center, 3459 Imperial avenue.

A melodrama by an anonymous author will be presented by the Patio Playhouse this weekend in connection with Escondido's Kit Carson Days.

The play, "Pure as the Driven Snow, or, A Working Girl's Secret," is a story about Picken's Pickle Factory. The show will be directed by Erika Solomon for performances at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday in the Central School Auditorium, Escondido.

Featured in the cast will be Jo Ann Watkins as Purity Dean, the heroine; Tony Plumer as Leander Longfellow, the hero; and Bill Strickland as Mortimer Frothingham, the villain.

There will be a concert starring Johnathan Miler, a cellist; and Iana Mysior, a pianist, in the Jewish Community Center Senior Adult Lounge, 4079 5th st., at 8 p.m. September 12. For more information call 583-3300.

La Cima Is First Joint Work Camp

A new experiment in corrections, the only one of its kind in California, has begun, according to Frank Woodson, director of County Honor Camps.

The California Division of Forestry operated La Cima Conservation Camp for some years, but it was becoming increasingly difficult to keep it adequately manned with state offenders.

San Diego County jail was overflowing, and the County Department of Honor Camps had been wanting to try a "work therapy" concept and compare its rehabilitation effectiveness with honor camp treatment and counseling.

"So on July 1 La Cima became the first joint County-State forestry work camp. The facility is manned by prisoners from San Diego County jail, giving a break to County taxpayers since the State subsidizes most of the camp expenses. The County furnishes the men's clothing and a few services like laundry," he comments.

State forest rangers are staying on to supervise and plan the work projects, with County employees having charge of the inmates. The camp will spend five days a week on State forestry projects and one day on County.

The work will be mainly fire fighting and prevention. Crews will build fire and fuel breaks, trim trees, collect seeds, fight fires, and other forestry projects.

"GHOSTS" — Alice Barnhart, portraying Mrs. Alving, comforts her son as he tells her of his incurable illness. Charles Jones plays the part of her son, Oswald, in the stage play, "Ghosts", which opens tomorrow night at the Actors Quarter Theatre, 480 Elm st., San Diego. The Henrik Ibsen classic, directed by L. W. Beck, will also include Christine Brown in the leading role of Regina, the housekeeper.

USIU Performing Arts Classes Expanded For Upcoming Semester

Additional classes, a wider scope of offerings and more faculty are the highlights of the plans for United States International University's Conservatory in the Performing Arts fall quarter which begins Sept. 27, it was revealed today by Gordon Hilker, Director of USIU's School of Performing Arts, 350 Cedar st.

"The purpose of the Conservatory," Hilker explained, "is to give anyone, child or adult, with a desire to learn or improve themselves in dance, music or theatre, such an opportunity. No specialized qualifications are necessary in order to enjoy the personal expansion and satisfaction possible by attending one or more of our classes in dance, music or theatre."

Conservatory classes are kept small, Hilker said, in order to offer the finest of training to students. All teaching of the many classes offered in dance, music or theatre is done by experienced, talented instructors under the direct supervision of USIU School of Performing Arts administrators and division heads. Emphasis is placed on making the student more aware of his own potential and in inspiring him to greater achievement.

There will be classes offered for all age groups; children, teens and adults. All classes are given at the School at 350 Cedar st., during mornings, afternoons and evenings, Monday through Saturday. Hilker suggested interested persons contact the Administration Office of USIU Conservatory, 350 Cedar st., or by phoning 239-0391, ext. 41 for a fall quarter Conservatory

Tram To Be Locale For Movie Session

For the third time this year, one of the West's most exciting tourist attractions — the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway — will become the locale for a motion picture production Tuesday and Wednesday.

Leading actors Peter Falk, Roddy McDowell and William Windom will appear in several scenes to be photographed around tramway facilities during the two-day shooting session by a crew from Universal Pictures, according to Ed Abrams, who is directing his first one-and-a-half hour film for television.

The company chose the two days when the tramway is ordinarily closed to the public this time of year so it could have uninterrupted access to all facilities.

Burgener Due At Seminar

Senator Clair W. Burgener will be the luncheon speaker at the State Social Welfare Board's northern regional Seminar on Absent Parent Child Support, according to an announcement by Chairman Robert E. Mitchell.

The one-day meeting will be held at the Host Hotel, Sacramento Metropolitan Airport, Monday, for representatives of the forty-six northern counties and a similar meeting will be held Wednesday in Norwalk for southern county representatives. The entire subject of child support enforcement will be aired including the social implications and fiscal ramifications on county government.

Mitchell, a Norwalk attorney, stated, "We are delighted that Senator Clair Burgener will be able to join us for our Sacramento meeting. He introduced the original legislation in the current session which incorporated many of the recommendations of our Task Force on Absent Parent Child Support as well as other important changes in the welfare system."

Mitchell noted that a special guide for an effective child support enforcement program will be released at the meeting. Boards of Supervisors, county administrative officers, presiding judges, district attorneys, county welfare directors and chief probation officers have been invited to attend.

'Renaissance' Nights Planned

Friday nights will be Renaissance nights during September at the Mercado in Rancho Bernardo.

Live outdoor entertainment will be performed from 6-9 p.m. each Friday in the main courtyards of the marketplace. Included will be excerpts from Shakespearean dramas and Renaissance music performed by the La Jolla High School Shakespeare Company under the direction of John Carey.

Performances will include scenes from "Hamlet," "Merchant of Venice," "Othello," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Richard III."

The students will also present traditional Renaissance music, including guitarist and recorder groups," said Cary.

VICTORY CANTEN — Patty Andrews, of the famed Andrews Sisters, has been cast in the lead role of "Victory Canteen", a 1940's musical spoof, which will open September 16 at the Off Broadway Theatre in San Diego.

'Arsenic and Old Lace' Is La Mesa Playhouse Friday and Saturday Play

By Lee Sinclair
"Arsenic and Old Lace," by Joseph Kesselring, a familiar play among little theaters, is being performed by the La Mesa Players, Friday and Saturday evenings through September 18.

The story concerns the spinster sisters, Abby and Martha Brewster, whose hobby consists of lacing wine with arsenic and then serving it to lonely men in order to give them eternal happiness and peace.

The bodies are buried in the "Panama Canal" by nephew Teddy, who thinks he is Theodore Roosevelt, and that the basement of the house is the Panama Canal. When this situation is inadvertently discovered by another nephew, Mortimer Brewster, the drama critic, and the long-absent and sinister nephew Jonathan, appears, with his friend "Dr. Einstein," the fun begins.

Margery Null and Jean MacKenzie as the two sisters were bright, witty and charming, but the acting honors should go to Walt Starr who played Jonathan in platform shoes and a Munster-like face. His performance had all the sinister overtones of Boris Karloff!

Mortimer Brewster, the incredulous nephew, as played by Victor Nelson, unfortunately lacked variety and his constant emoting proved tiring. Dan Couch as Teddy got the proper laughs from his charge.

'Victory Canteen' To Open Next Thursday Night

Casting for Vincent Miranda's production of the musical "Victory Canteen," opening September 16 at the Off Broadway Theatre, will include many of the actors who appeared in the successful Los Angeles production, including its star Patty Andrews of the famed Andrews Sisters.

But new to the production will be co-star Carol Worthington who, with Brian Avery, form the love interest for "Victory Canteen." San Diego performers Bob Hanley and Deanne Johnston are also new to the cast.

Set in a canteen for servicemen during World War II, "Victory Canteen" is a musical spoof of the 40's written by Milt Larsen and Bobby Lauher, with music by Academy Award winners Bob and Dick Sherman who wrote the score for "Mary Poppins." The original production was staged and directed by Jack Baker. James Burrows will direct the San Diego production.

Rounding out the stellar cast are Stewart Rose, Bruce Baker, Marsha Kramer, Robert Towers, Patti Shayne, Judy Maddox, Sonny Carl and Robina Suwol, which leaves only the important role of "Dad" to be filled.

Current stage fare at the beautiful new playhouse finds Rose Marie starring in John Patrick's hilarious comedy "Everybody's Girl." This laugh-packed entertainment chronicles the woes that can befall a woman after she has been named Mother of the Year. The exciting cast includes Kathy Garver, of TV's "Family Affair," Paul Smith, of "The Doris Day Show," Robert Towers, Robert Hanley, John Bardt and Albert Hartman.

Tickets for both productions are available at the Off Broadway Theatre box office, by mail order, telephone reservation and at ticket agencies throughout the city. The theatre is located at 314 F Street, telephone 235-6535.

Welk Named Rose Parade Grand Marshal

Keeping the rhythm for Pasadena's traditional year-beginning festivities on New Year's Day, 1972, themed "The Joy of Music," will be Lawrence Welk, the Champagne Music maestro, who will be Grand Marshal.

Virgil J. White, Tournament president, in bestowing the honor, said, "Music will fill the air during our New Year's Day events in Pasadena. Grand Marshal Lawrence Welk will lead the famed floral parade of 60 spectacular floats with a musical motif, 21 bands of 2,500 colorfully uniformed musicians and 180 silver adorned equestrian units."

The maestro said in response, "This is one of the finest things that has ever happened to me. For many years, I have admired Pasadena's gift of beauty to the world. I shall do everything possible to make the 1972 Tournament of Roses the best in history."

Emergency Medical Care For San Diego County Improving

porter into use. Wide coverage was given the transporters' first trip by ambulance and Navy helicopter to El Centro to pick up a baby boy and bring him back to University Hospital of San Diego County's infant intensive care unit.

The transporter was designed by Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics at University Hospital. It is a self-contained incubator with its own generator and air supply, specially designed to furnish the breath of life to tiny infants with respiratory disorders until they can reach the hospital intensive care unit.

University Hospital has an exceptional infant intensive care unit with equipment designed by Dr. Gluck, equipment which most hospitals couldn't justify because it would not be needed often enough. The facilities were available; the problem was how to bring the critically ill infants — usually premature and very delicate — to the equipment.

"The biggest problem," says Gleason, "was how to get the transporter to the infant and back to the hospital. Two private ambulance companies now stand ready to answer an emergency call at any time, and if the patients' parents can't pay, they'll make their run at no charge. The Navy and the Coast Guard make helicopters available for longer trips. The cooperation has been outstanding."

Since that first run on March 3, the transporter has made more than 70 trips, several to Imperial Valley points by helicopter. This alone has been enough to justify the committee's existence, Gleason said.

"Less spectacular but equally newsworthy is the progress made in upgrading emergency facilities in hospitals in the county," comments Gleason. "In 1968, only two had emergency rooms which could qualify as a Primary Emergency Facility."

"To be a PEF, there has to be a doctor on duty 24 hours a day, 7 days a week; there must be a nursing staff and special life-saving equipment such as defibrillators and pacemakers; there must be X-ray and laboratory facilities all ways available; there must always be an operating room ready for emergency use," he explains. "Today, thanks to the committee's efforts, there are 16 hospitals with fully certified PEF's."

Race Season Nears End With Top Del Mar Events

DEL MAR — Richest and most important races of the season will close out the record-breaking Del Mar meeting Saturday and the following Wednesday (September 15).

Saturday's headliner will be the $75,000 added Del Mar Handicap, which will have its 32nd running at a mile and three-eighths on the infield turf course. Racing will continue the following Monday through Wednesday, with closing day's biggie being the 24th presentation of the famed Del Mar Futurity, the West's great 2-year-old classic which is expected to gross better than $100,000.

Mighty Cougar II, leading candidate for national grass honor, will be the high weight and favorite for the Del Mar 'Cap. Bill Shoemaker, who has ridden the Chilean star owned by Mary F. Jones in most of his winning efforts, will be aboard Cougar II. The latter was second to stablemate Daryl's Joy in this race last year.

Wednesday's Futurity looms as one of the most interesting and competitive renewals in the history of the fixture. Although there appear to be two standouts for the event, which will be run at seven and one-half furlongs on the grass for the first time, there is every chance of a colt coming up for the event which could furnish a big surprise.

Pads Eye Pitching Fame As Home Stand Closes

The San Diego Padres, with an excellent opportunity to finish the season boasting the National League's second best pitching staff, open a three-game series tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Single games with the Dodgers are scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights at 7:30 with a 1 p.m. Sunday game concluding the series and the home stand.

The Padre staff recently passed Houston and Los Angeles in the league's pitching derby to trail only the Mets.

This is a dramatic accomplishment for San Diego pitchers who, as late as May 24, trailed all National League clubs in staff earned run average.

Furthermore, San Diego pitchers should they maintain their present pace will finish the season with a collective earned run average that would have led all National League teams last year.

Dave Roberts, who will work one of the games with the Dodgers, is battling New York's Tom Seaver for the league's ERA title.

And Padre fans this week-end probably will see Clay Kirby become the first San Diego pitcher to pass the 200-season strikeouts mark. In addition, Kirby has well within his grasp a new club record for season's victories and an ERA under the coveted three-runs-per-game level.

Then there's Steve Arlt whose record does not satisfy his true performance. And Fred Norman, who allows an earned run as often as rain in July.

"The Padre pitching this year has been of pennant-winning calibre," a veteran baseball man said. "And these are young pitchers with strong arms. They figure to become even better."

Wild West Show Due At Arena

The old west barrels in San Diego Sept. 28 in the form of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West has been re-created by Western showman Monte Montan, Jr. It includes top Western performers and riders, as well as representatives of 10 Indian tribes. Seventy performers and 125 animals—including a herd of 10 buffalo—are featured.

The show re-enacts the most colorful portions of the Buffalo Bill show—originated by the legendary Cody in 1883—with elaborate costuming, music, lighting and narration added.

Kiwanis Schedules Kids Day Saturday Afternoon

Saturday afternoon, Spring Valley's youngsters will be the guests of the Spring Valley Kiwanis Club at La Presa Junior High School when the club's Kids Day celebration takes place.

The affair, which will last from noon to 4 p.m., will include free hot dogs, ice cream, old drinks, games, and prizes, or youngsters from kindergarten age through the sixth grade.

The chain of events leading up to the celebration started last Spring, when the Kiwanis Club offered prizes of trans or radios and ribbons for a Kids Day poster contest. Lynn Leiberger won the grand prize.

Since then, Kiwanis members have been contacting local merchants for donations of prizes, money, and food. The results of the donations have netted enough prizes so that nearly every youngster in attendance Saturday will win something.

The day's activities will be supervised by Kiwanis members, who will officiate at games and handle clean-up chores following the affair.

A special feature of the program will be the appearance of Marie Hitchcock, Spring Valley's Puppet Lady, who will entertain with her puppets and parrot, "Kooky."

Other entertainment will include the showing of Walt

Disney movies continually, as well as an exhibition of a Kids Zoo by the El Cajon Fair Farmers of America.

Training Class Held For Kiwanis Officers

A training conference for incoming Division 11 officers and committee chairmen of all-Nev-Hawaii Kiwanis was held at Lemon Grove Junior High school last week.

John R. Barnes of Alhambra and Philip R. Robinson of Cypress, candidates for governor-elect, were among those who spoke.

Films and round table discussions, reports and a question-and-answer period completed the morning session.

Division 11 inducted 73 new members during 1970; Ken Conrad, lieutenant-governor-elect from Lemon Grove Kiwanis, who hopes to better that record during his term of office which begins Oct. 1.

$16 Lost In Purse Snatch

Helen Netzeley, of 2324 Gold-n ave., Lemon Grove, and wife of Byron Netzeley, superintendent of the Lemon Grove School District, was the victim of a purse snatching last Monday evening.

The incident occurred at about 8:15 p.m. when Mrs. Netzeley returned to her automobile after purchasing some groceries from the Food Basket in Lemon Grove.

As she was unlocking her car, a male negro, thought to be 16 to 18 years of age, grabbed her purse and pulled it from her arm, fleeing south of the supermarket.

An unidentified passer-by saw what was taking place and gave chase to the fleeing suspect, but was unable to catch him. The passer-by, however, picked up the purse, which the suspect apparently dropped after removing the wallet.

Contained in the wallet was about $16 in cash and several credit cards. The suspect was described as between 5-10 and 6-0 tall, with a short afro hair style and thin build.

John Annis, a traffic officer with the California Highway Patrol will instruct. "It was an exciting class last year," Annis said. "Many students brought back information from weekend camps about camp sites and camp conditions. They also brought back some questions which we analyzed in class."

Classes will be conducted each Thursday starting next week, 7:30 p.m. in room 204 at Helix. Classes are sponsored by Helix Adults School system. $1 pays for the nine class course.

TRAFFIC SAFETY TESTS — Traffic safety equipment, designed to reduce damage to vehicles which collide with stationary obstacles as well as cut down the number of one-car accidents, fatalities, have been tested on California highways.

Included in the approved equipment was a system of barrels, which cushioned the crash of the radio-controlled car in photo.

State Adds Charges On Local Meat Firm

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — A suit against Lemon Grove Meats, asking $50,000 in punitive damages and $2,500 for each alleged violation of the law in meat sales, was filed in Superior Court by the State Attorney General Evelle Younger.

The suit filed Sept. 1, accuses the firm "with false advertising and misrepresentation."

The action alleges the Lemon Grove firm advertised choice meat at low prices and then tried to persuade the buyer to switch to a better grade and that it also wrapped meats inferior to those purchased.

The officers of the company already have pending against them criminal complaints, resulting from investigations made by deputy sheriffs and a representative of the Dept. of Agriculture.

Carmine Bua, attorney for the meat firm, said the charges are unfounded. The company's methods are ethical and its advertising honest, the attorney said.

the ground.

When assistance arrived a search of the area was made. The second suspect, but was unsuccessful. The suspect was described as about 18 years old, 5-10, 150 pounds, with blond, bushy hair.

Pacheco was then transported to county jail, and a brown banner bag believed to contain glue which he had in his possession was taken as evidence.

Traffic Safety Devices Tested On California Highway System

Tubs filled with sand, empty steel barrels and water-filled plastic tubes are the latest items approved for use as traffic safety devices for use on California freeways.

Test installations that feature one of the odd trio are being made at locations where out-of-control vehicles could ram head-on into a bridge pier, sign support or similar fixed object.

In recent years, more people have been killed on California freeways in accidents involving only one car and a fixed object than by any other single cause. The all time high was in 1966 when 240 such fatal mishaps occurred.

Since then, California Division of Highways engineers have made basic changes in freeway design, eliminated many fixed objects and shield ed those that must remain in place to reduce the frequency and severity of the single car accident. They have experienced some success and in 1970 — although freeway travel has increased substantially — the number of such fatal collisions dropped to 182.

As one phase of the program, the Division's Materials and Research Laboratory began to seek ways of controlling and spending the energy other than through the use of a guardrail.

Guardrail is usually adequate when hit at a comparatively flat angle because much of the energy is harmlessly dissipated as the vehicle is deflected. But unfortunately, when a guardrail is hit at a sharp angle or head-on a substantial portion of the energy is spent in damaging the vehicle.

Researchers sought to overcome this handicap through devices that serve as cushions between the solid object and moving vehicle. Called impact energy attenuators, they are particularly effective at locations where the deflection qualities of guardrail cannot be fully used.

One type consists of a series of empty steel drums mounted in the same form as a set of bowling pins. The barrels are fastened to each other and when struck, each one must be crushed in sequence.

A somewhat similar system requires the offending car to break down and force its way through a series of plastic tubs filled with sand.

The third requires the vehicle to force water from an assembly of plastic tubes at a controlled rate.

After crash tests with radio-controlled vehicles worthless for other use had proved them to be effective, all three types of attenuators were installed at scattered points along the California freeway system.

The first to go into actual use was a group of sand filled tubs located in Los Angeles at the Harbor Freeway's Channel Street off ramp, the tubs suffered only minor damage in the one accident that has occurred there. Engineers were unable to ascertain if the car sustained any damage because the driver did not stop.

Now steps have been taken to collect that information even if the driver doesn't file an accident report. Cameras synchronized to the attenuators will be installed at four locations. If the attenuator is struck the camera will react quickly enough to film both the impact and the aftermath.

Deadline Nears

Only seven days remain to file an appeal if you believe your property has not been fairly valued for tax purposes by the county assessor.

September 15, at 5 p.m., is the deadline for filing an application to adjust the value in San Diego County with the clerk of the Assessment Appeals Board, reminds Richard Nevins, Chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

In June and July, taxpayers received notices from the county assessors' offices if the appraised value of their property had been increased. Effective 1971, 25% of market value is the assessed value to be used in all counties.

"Ask yourself," Nevins stated, "if you would accept approximately four times the assessed value at a fair sales price. Normally, you will find the assessor has been fair. If the property assessment still appears out-of-line, the taxpayer should then appeal his value."

Open House Planned At Boys' Camp

Rancho Del Campo, San Diego County Probation Department's rehabilitation camp for boys, is holding open house Sunday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

"Rancho Del Campo is our treatment facility for wayward boys 15 to 18 years old," said Kenneth Fare, San Diego County's Chief Probation Officer. "Boys are recommended to the camp by the courts."

"The short treatment program is designed to help the boy function in society and handle his conflicts in a manner acceptable to those with whom he must live and work."

Approximately 350 boys benefit from the program each year. On the staff are probation officers, school teachers, a psychologist, selected college students, and auxiliary help.

"The program is intensive, encompassing work, school, recreation, counseling and close after-release supervision," comments Fare. "Boys from Del Campo have demonstrated a 78% success ratio for a one-year period after their release."

Rancho Del Campo is located at Campo, 60 miles east of San Diego. It can be reached via State Highway 94.
